Giggling Squid

Typically, these projects comprise of the refurbishment or fit-out of the new or existing restaurant, and follow the clients format and specification for their restaurants.

On site work is normally completed within 3 months. Due to the nature of the sites, various surveys are undertaken at the pre-construction stage, including asbestos and service detection.

The scope of construction work comprises of mechanical and electrical installation, decoration/re-decoration, client branding and modifications to services and drainage. There is the potential that contractors will also use hazardous chemicals, during the site work.

SWH undertake a full Principal Designer Service through all stages of the project, which includes checking contractors' proposals.
